FIVE FEDEX DRIVERS EARN HONORS AT THE COLORADO STATE TRUCK DRIVING CHAMPIONSHIP
Winners Demonstrate Commitment to Safety and Professionalism

BRIGHTON, Colo. – June 8, 2009 – Five drivers representing FedEx Corp. (NYSE: FDX) operating companies placed among the winners at the 2009 Colorado State Truck Driving Championship in Brighton on June 6.

- Paul Frisby, a driver for FedEx National LTL based in Denver, captured the top spot in the 4-Axle class. This marks Frisby's second state title since 2006.
- FedEx Ground contractor Matthew Allison won the Step Van title, while his drivers, Peter Allison and Vanessa Hubb, finished second and third, respectively, in the class. All three are based in Denver.
- FedEx Freight driver Michael Kumm (Colorado Springs) finished second in the 4-Axle class.

Frisby and Allison will go on to compete at the American Trucking Associations' 2009 National Truck Driving Championships (NTDC), known as the "Super Bowl of Safety" August 18-22, 2009 in Pittsburgh. In addition, each state winner will be recognized by FedEx as part of its safe driving initiative, The Chairman's Challenge.

The Colorado State Truck Driving Championship is an opportunity for professional truck drivers to demonstrate their driving skills and commitment to safety. The event includes a difficult driving skills test, pre-trip inspection and written examination covering vehicle operation and knowledge of federal safety regulations.

In 2008, 70 driving professionals from 36 states representing FedEx Freight, FedEx National LTL, FedEx Ground, FedEx Express and FedEx Custom Critical qualified to compete at the National Truck Driving Championships by winning their respective state's competition and driving accident-free for at least one year. FedEx drivers captured National Champion titles in the Tank Truck, 4-Axle and Twins classes and the NTDC Rookie of the Year honor. In addition, FedEx drivers earned three additional top-three finishes in their respective vehicle classes.
