FOUR FEDEX DRIVERS EARN HONORS
AT THE INDIANA STATE TRUCK DRIVING CHAMPIONSHIP
Winners Demonstrate Commitment to Safety and Professionalism

INDIANAPOLIS – June 8, 2009 – Four drivers representing FedEx Corp. (NYSE: FDX) operating companies placed among the winners at the 2009 Indiana State Truck Driving Championship in Indianapolis on June 5-6.

- Brian Clark, a driver for FedEx Express based in Indianapolis, captured the top spot in the 3-Axle class. This marks Clark's third state title since 2004.
- FedEx Freight driver Bruce Schwering (Indianapolis) finished second in the 4-Axle class.
- FedEx Ground contractor Tom Crowe (Terre Haute) posted a third-place finish in the Tank Truck class.
- Karen Litzelman, a FedEx Express driver in Indianapolis, was third in the Straight Truck class.

Clark will go on to compete at the American Trucking Associations' 2009 National Truck Driving Championships (NTDC), known as the "Super Bowl of Safety" August 18-22, 2009 in Pittsburgh. In addition, each state winner will be recognized by FedEx as part of its safe driving initiative, The Chairman's Challenge.

The Indiana State Truck Driving Championship is an opportunity for professional truck drivers to demonstrate their driving skills and commitment to safety. The event includes a difficult driving skills test, pre-trip inspection and written examination covering vehicle operation and knowledge of federal safety regulations.

In 2008, 70 driving professionals from 36 states representing FedEx Freight, FedEx National LTL, FedEx Ground, FedEx Express and FedEx Custom Critical qualified to compete at the National Truck Driving Championships by winning their respective state's competition and driving accident-free for at least one year. FedEx drivers captured National Champion titles in the Tank Truck, 4-Axle and Twins classes and the NTDC Rookie of the Year honor. In addition, FedEx drivers earned three additional top-three finishes in their respective vehicle classes.
